

Call for Applications

2025 SASE Early Career Workshop

7–8 July 2025, Montréal

Deadline for submissions: 16 December 2024

The SASE Early Career Workshop (ECW) is a one-day workshop that provides an opportunity for a longer and deeper discussion of participants' conference papers. It takes place the day before the start of the SASE annual conference (8 July 2025). The 2025 Early Career Workshop will be hosted in partnership with McGill University, with senior SASE and McGill faculty.

The SASE Early Career Workshop will be held on the 7–8 July 2025, at the McGill University campus in Montréal. The workshop begins with dinner on the 7th, then runs all day on the 8th. 15–20 competitively allocated spots are available for early career researchers – travel and accommodations, as well as SASE registration and membership, are paid for participants in the Workshop. Please see below for instructions on how to apply (hard deadline: 16 December 2024).

Eligibility

Applicants to the Workshop must be PhD students or researchers having obtained their PhD within 3 years of the annual SASE meeting. Independent scholars are also welcome to apply.

Applications

In order to apply for the Workshop, your paper abstract must be submitted and accepted to the main conference through the normal process.

Applicants must also submit the following materials in English before the deadline of 16 December 2024:

- full paper
- two-page CV
- one-page case for support - a letter detailing why you wish to attend the workshop and what financial support you require from SASE (approximate cost of travel, whether you need housing during the conference, and what support you have from your home institution)

All of this must be submitted via the submissions system before the submissions deadline passes (December 16, 2024). Any application without all of these elements will not be considered for inclusion in the Workshop.

While two papers may be submitted to the SASE conference, applicants may submit only one paper to be considered for the ECW. Only those papers accepted to the main conference will be considered for inclusion in the Workshop.

Details

Conference registration and membership fees are waived for ECW participants. Full conference accommodations (7–12 July 2025) and most meals will also be provided. Travel costs will be covered based on need and available funds. Participants not requiring support for travel or accommodations should state this in their one-page letter.

Participants will receive a certificate of participation. In the case of co-authored papers, please note that only one author may participate in the Workshop for a given paper.

(Hard) deadline for applications: 16 December 2024

If you have any queries regarding the 2025 SASE Early Career Workshop please contact

SASE Executive Director Annelies Fryberger (saseexecutive@sase.org) &

Early Career Workshop Committee Chair Timur Ergen (te@mpifg.de)